EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

The application is in condition for allowance except for the presence of claims 1-11 to invention non-elected without traverse filed on July 31, 2003.

Accordingly, claims 1-11 have been canceled.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 12-22, 24 and 25 are allowed.
3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:
4. The prior arts of record do not anticipate or render obvious to one skilled in the art a method of forming an array substrate for an in-plane switching liquid crystal display device comprising various steps as claimed, more specifically the steps of forming an alignment layer over the substrate to cover the patterned second metal layer and simultaneously thermal-treating the alignment layer and the source and drain electrode are considered novel.
5. The newly cited reference, USPAT 6,156,583, USPAT 6,642,972 and US 2002/0093600 disclose a method of forming an array substrate for a liquid crystal display device wherein the steps include patterning the first metal layer using a first mask to form gate line having gate electrode, forming a gate insulating layer on the substrate to cover the patterned first metal layer, simultaneously patterning an active layer and an ohmic contact layer on the gate insulating layer using a mask, forming and patterning a second metal layer using a mask to form data line having a source and drain electrode. Similarly, the AIPA described in the instant application also discloses similar method steps as disclosed in the above patents and pre-grant publication. The AIPA further discloses that the heat treatment process of curing the alignment layer is generally executed under the condition of annealing the thin film transistor. The AIPA further discloses that however, since these processes are carried out at different times in the array process and cell process, there are problems of increasing the production cost and time. However, none of the prior arts alone or in combination with any other prior art references teach or suggest the method steps of forming an alignment layer over the substrate to cover the patterned second metal layer and simultaneously thermal-treating the alignment layer and the source and drain electrode, including all other recitations.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
